“Nonsense. Balderdash. Figgldygrak.

Isn't it odd that gibberish words are often the sounds of other words, cut up and dismembered, then stitched into something like them
—yet wholly unlike them at the same time...

...I wonder if you could do that to a _____ NOUN.
Pull him apart,
emotion by emotion, bit by bit, _____ ADJECTIVE chunk by _____ ADJECTIVE chunk.
Then combine them back together into something else, like a Dysian Aimian.
If you do put a man together like that, Dalinar, be sure to name him
_____, after me. Or perhaps _____ NONSENSE WORD.”

“How remarkable, [if] you spend your life _____ ACTIVITY, you eventually find they won't _____ VERB up for you. There's poetry in that, don't you think, you storming personification of _____ REPULSIVE SUBSTANCE?”

“Can you _____ VERB it? Something just _____ VERB (PAST TENSE).
I believe that's the sound the world makes when it pisses itself.”

“Deal with your own stupid _____ NOUN, you _____ NOUN.
Don't make me come over there and _____ VERB
you around again.”
